Jefferson Barracks Trooper Shot Himself as Door Closes on Girl Who Refused to Be His Wife When He Wished.

SHE URGED DELAY UNTIL HIS RELEASE FROM ARMY

After Shot, Which Accident Kept Him From Repeating, He Stayed at Home for Nearly an Hour—May Recover.

Because his martial contract with the United States government stood in the way of his entering a marital contract with the girl he loved, Levi Granger, a member of Troop H, Eighth Cavalry, is at the City Hospital with a bullet in his body.

He shot himself early Wednesday morning in front of 2357 Benton street, because Miss Wharton, who lives there, refused to marry him while he is a soldier.

That meant a wait of only about three months, but death seemed preferable to such a wait, and he aimed a bullet at his heart.

Granger is stationed with his troop at Jefferson Barracks. He has served two years and nine months of his present enlistment, which will expire in January. He is 24 years old.

For two years he has been paying attentions to Miss Wharton, who is 20 years old and pretty. He was introduced to her by a mutual acquaintance on an occasion when there was an excursion to the Barracks, and immediately became interested in her.

He had been in the Cuban campaign and had been wounded, and appeared much of a hero to her eyes.

For six months they were engaged. He was very devoted, calling on her at her home three and four times a week and seemingly caring only for her society.

He repeatedly urged her to marry him. She, guided by the advice of her mother, reasoned with him that it would be better to wait until he was released from the army and had obtained a position.

He called at the house Tuesday evening and again urged Miss Wharton to become his wife without delay. She urged delay, as she had before. He stayed until after midnight and then talked it all over. According to her mother, Mrs. H. Wharton, he acquiesced and they parted.

The parting was at the front door. As Granger passed out through the gate Miss Wharton closed the door and went to her room. She heard a shot and called her brother, William, who lived at 2357 Benton street, and he found her hanging over the fence.

After walking to the gate, which had been closed, he found her hanging over the fence. He had shot himself over the heart and had fallen against the fence. His coat had been caught by the pickets, which had prevented him from falling to the sidewalk.

The revolver had fallen to the sidewalk. He asked for it to complete his suicidal effort.

AIRSHIP WEATHER TO CONTINUE WITH LITTLE CHANGE IN TEMPERATURE, IS THE PREDICTION.

Those who have become tired of the smoke pall over St. Louis may as well forget their weariness. According to the local forecast official, there is little prospect of enough wind to drive it away. The official forecast reads:

"Fairly cloudy tonight and Thursday; moderate temperature. Light, variable winds." The only disturbance anywhere, on the weather map is in the Gulf of Mexico, south of New Orleans, where a violent storm is raging. This gives rain in the southern tier of states and cloudiness as far north as Memphis and as far east as Virginia and North Carolina. There is also some rain on the Pacific coast. The temperature ranges have been immaterial.

Depression at Office in St. Petersburg, Pa. by Publication of Dispatches From Tokio Announcing Continued Success.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 2. (U. P. M.)—The official reports from Tokio describing the desperate assaults on Port Arthur, beginning Oct. 25, have created visible depression at the war office. The sustained character of the bombardment with siege guns and the breaching of the walls by underground mines, but above all, the fact that the Japanese government after weeks of silence regarding the operations of the besiegers has given out these reports before actual success has been achieved, convinces the military authorities that after long preparation Gen. Nogai is not only making a supreme effort to carry the fortress, but feels so confident of the success that he has ordered the preliminary operations to be made public.

"They believe the assault was timed for the announcement of the fall of the fortress to be made upon the birthday of the Mikado tomorrow, which, by a strange coincidence, is the tenth anniversary of the accession of Emperor Nicholas and a great Russian holiday."

Tomorrow, therefore, is expected to be marked by fate for a day of immense importance to the Russian cause. The character of the present attempt upon the fortress is evidently so determined that the authorities frankly admit they would not be surprised if the end was at hand.

In the face of the gloomy reports direct from Tokio, the invalid Russian army organ, today announces that the storming operation ended with a repulse of the Japanese on Monday, but the paper fails to give its authority for this important statement. No official report warranting it has been received by the war office.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE
FUTYANDUADZY
ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 2.—Gen. Sakharoff, telegraphing yesterday, reports that reconnaissance were made Oct. 30 on the Russian left flank in a southwestern direction to a chain of mountains south of the village of Sandstany, where volunteer sharpshooters and half a squadron of Cossacks drove a company of Japanese infantry and a squadron of cavalry from the mountain range. The Russians advanced three miles southwest.

The Russian cavalry made a strong reconnaissance on the left bank of the Rur river, crossing the fortified village of Futuandudy.

The Japanese were driven out and the Russians occupied the village. The Japanese retreated to a fortified position a mile and a half south and opened a cross fire on the Russian batteries. A squadron of Cossacks attacked a Japanese battery and the Russian sharpshooters, but met with little success. The Cossacks lost 40 men killed.

Gen. Sakharoff says: "The cavalry retired after having ascertained the enemy's numbers and position."

WORLD'S FAIR
HOTEL KEEPER

Quarrel Over Bill of Guests Is Believed to Have Been Occasion of Fatal Shooting in West Belle Place House.

SLAYER IS ARRESTED AT A DOWNTOWN CORNER

Girl's Screams First Called Boomers to Scene of Tragedy and Wounded Man Died Soon After Assaultant Had Left House.

Hayden T. Loring, manager of the World's Fair boarding house at 4203 and 4219-21 West Belle place, was shot and almost instantly killed in the front hall of No. 4219 West Belle place at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning by Norman M. Vaughan, a boarder, as the result of a quarrel about a rebate in the payment of a board bill.

When the shooting occurred, Vaughan's sister, Oma, 13 years old, was standing beside the chair in which Loring was seated. She began to scream as her brother drew his revolver, and as the echo of her first scream rang through the big boarding-house, exciting the men, women and children boarders and bringing them hurrying to the scene, Vaughan's revolver shots were heard.

He fired five times. Three of the shots took effect in Loring's body, over the heart one in the stomach and the third in the right thigh. Another shot shattered a mirror hanging on the wall back of Loring's head. The fifth shot was buried in the woodwork.

When his revolver was empty, Vaughan ran out of the front door. He was joined there by another boarder, Miss Della Vaughan, and with her walked east on West Belle place to Loring's other house, No. 4203, where all his boarders take their meals.

Boarders who were at breakfast saw Vaughan pass through the hall, out the back door and through a back gate into the alley and disappeared. He said nothing to anyone, and at the time none of the boarders knew of the shooting. He was arrested later by Special Officer Deane at Seventh and Olive streets and taken to the Deer Street Police Station.

All at Breakfast
When Shots Came.

Loring's house were full of boarders. The three-story double building at 4203 and 4219 West Belle place was exclusively a rooming house, and his other house at 4203 was both a rooming house and a dining place for all his boarders.

At 9 o'clock Wednesday morning all but 10 of the roomers at the big house had either gone downtown or were at breakfast at 4203.

The entrance to 4219-21 is through a large reception hall. From this hall near the front leads the stairway to the upper floors. In front of this stairway and back of it the hall spreads out to a width of 45 feet. At the point where the stairway landing converges, the hallway is 9 feet wide.

Loring was seated near the back of the hall, and facing the front door. Vaughan and his mother and sister entered the hall; and while Oma stopped beside Loring's chair and waited her hand upon an arm of it, the two men began a discussion about Vaughan's board bill for himself, his father, Judge William Vaughan, and his two sisters.

Girl's Scream
Heralds Alarm.

The first indication of trouble was Oma Vaughan's scream. It was heard by Robert Candy, a negro houseman, who was upstairs, and Edward Belshazzar, a roomer, who was down stairs. Belshazzar ran into the hallway; Candy ran to the stairway and looked down into the hall from the second floor. He says he clearly saw Vaughan and Loring.

Before Candy or Belshazzar could get within sight of the two men, the shooting began. Candy says Vaughan was about five feet in front of Loring, and between him and the front door Loring was trying to arise from his chair. Oma had run behind the stairway, and was screaming helplessly.

FOR BOY BURGLARS

Two Members of Youthful Band Which Operated in South St. Louis Sentenced.

Four of the eight South St. Louis youths arrested Oct. 25 on numerous charges of burglary and larceny, were sentenced by Judge Daniel G. Taylor, in the juvenile court, Wednesday morning. Two were discharged and the cases of two are still undecided.

So far as known to the police, the boys' depredations extended over ten blocks in South St. Louis and Carondelet, and in a period of three weeks they entered nine stores, and stole more than $300. Sometimes they would take money from cash drawers and again they would open the doors of safes.

They finally attracted the attention of the police by their lavish expenditures for candy, cakes and other delicacies. Several of the boys confessed.

John Nauman, 15 years old, of 2315 South Menard street, David Wilcox, 13 years old, of 122 South Eleventh street, and Harry Weisbrodt, 14 years old, of 1725 South Broadway, were sentenced to the Missouri Training School at Booneville until they become 21 years old.

William Schlegel, 12 years old, of 1816 South Broadway was sentenced to the school for three years.

In pronouncing punishment Judge Taylor seemed to be little hope for them; that they were almost incorrigible. They did not seem to know the difference between right and wrong, he said, but he hoped that as they grew older they would learn and would leave the institution with some knowledge of morals and principles.

The Schlegel youth was admonished to do right if he would have his liberty after three years. He had been kept since their arrest. Parents and relatives bade them good-by in the court room.

He had some change of living an honest life, Judge Schlegel said, and was probably led into the wrongdoing by others.

The boys were led back to the House of Detention where they have been kept since their arrest. Parents and relatives bade them good-by in the court room.

The cases of Harry and William Wilcox, 14 and 15 years old, respectively, of 1725 South Broadway street, remain on the docket.

Miss Jane Marshall Dies as a Result of Injuries Received While Heating Water Over Open Fire in Yard.

Miss Jane Marshall of 535 Geyer road, Kirkwood, died at her home Tuesday night after suffering all day from burns received while preparing a fire to heat water for washing clothes in her yard early Tuesday morning.

She was burned about the neck, shoulders and waist.

Miss Marshall was preparing an old-fashioned camp fire, using a kettle suspended above the fire for heating water.

The fire did not burn fast enough and Miss Marshall went for the oil can and threw kerosene over the flames.

Instantly the flames leaped up and caught the woman's dress.

She threw the can into the fire and screamed for help.

Continuing her cries, Miss Marshall ran toward the house, a distance of 25 feet, her clothing all ablaze.

Mrs. Heester, with whom she lives, ran out of the house with a blanket and started to throw it around the burning woman, but in her excitement Miss Marshall waved it aside and screamed for water.

The unfortunate woman ran about the yard while a servant and Mrs. Heester ran vainly and attempted to aid her.

Quarrel Over Sale of Hymn Books Caused Combat Between Negro Churchmen.

Rev. John Evans of 1716 Linden street, a colored preacher, shot and seriously wounded "Butt" Harrington, one of his parishioners, at Fourteenth and Morgan streets at 11:20 this morning.

Evans says he fired in self-defense. The men had trouble about song books which Harrington's wife had given the minister to sell. Harrington says the preacher with their own weapons drawn, and that he at first turned his revolver from Harrington to them, afterward dropping it to the sidewalk at their command.

Evans fired but once, the bullet penetrating Harrington's abdomen. The wounded man was taken to the City Hospital, where his wound was pronounced fatal.

Harrington's home is at 2305 Morgan street. He is 32 years old. Evans is an assistant pastor of a church at Twelfth and Morgan streets, in the parish of Elder McCabe. He is 30 years old.

Murky Haze Obscuring St. Louis' Atmosphere Puzzles Experts in Weather Conditions.

Has smoke inspection slipped a cog? Or is it fog? We were asked—in fog or not? That is the dispute.

Is St. Louis groping in fog or smoke? The Weather Bureau and the office of the city smoke inspector are each blaming the other. The experts in the government observatory on the Chemical building say there is not wind enough to carry the smoke off, and that in consequence the city is experiencing a density of atmosphere such as is common in London.

Smoke Inspector W. H. Jones does not subscribe to this theory. He says the mist is not smoke, but fog.

The Weather Bureau officials name more wind as the remedy.

IN CORNFIELD

Three Thousand at Concourse Cheer Start on What Is Intended to Be Longest Aerial Voyage Ever Made in Dirigible Craft.

COMPTON HILL RESERVOIR FIRST OBJECTIVE POINT

Flight to Be Final Test of California Craft at the World's Fair—Light Wind Adds Zest to Trial of Machinery.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the Baldwin airship, which sailed away from the aeronautic concourse fifteen minutes before, landed in a cornfield half a mile north of the Woman's Magazine building.

Aeronaut A. Roy Knabenshue explained that the exhaust valve of the gasoline engine had come off as the ship was over the Jefferson Guard headquarters, disabling the ship.

The exhaust valve almost struck aman in its descent. It was picked up and taken to Knabenshue, who said that he could replace it where it was and would be able in a short time to resume the cruise from where he was.

Inventor Baldwin and Superintendent of Aeronautics Hudson and Post-Dispatch reporters reached the ship in an automobile directly after it landed.

The crowd which saw the start was far the greatest that has yet gathered at the aeronautic concourse. Inside the inclosure of 300 spectators, and almost as many more were jammed at the gates trying to get in.

The crowd began assembling shortly after noon, and during the hour preceding the ascent they poured through the gates to a steady stream.

It was 2 o'clock when the east doors of the aerodrome swung open and the ship was led out and taken to the spot from which it has ascended each time, about 25 yards northeast of the east end of the aerodrome, with its prow toward the north.

Everything had been made ready before the ship was brought out and it only took five minutes for the final touch to be given and the flight to begin.

Knabenshue, in a dark blue sweater and a yellow cap, was ready and eager to be off.

As he was climbing into position on the framework, Thomas S. Baldwin, the inventor and owner of the ship, made a short speech to the crowd. He said the plan was for the ship to sail a course shaped like the letter L, to the Compton Hill reservoir at Grand and Lafayette avenues and back to the concourse, and then northeast about 10 miles and return.

TODAY'S FLIGHT FINAL TEST FOR "ARROW" HERE.

This will be his final flight in the Baldwin ship, and will be made for the purpose of determining two things:

First, to test the endurance of the gasoline motor which drives the ship.

Second, to ascertain the speed of the ship with a moderate wind.

KNABENSHUE TO CROSS CITY IN AIRSHIP TODAY

waiting for 2 o'clock. The crowds surged over to the west side of the Fair grounds. This east side was all but deserted. Nothing counted but the airship. The airship was it about as strictly and as exclusively as ever any one thing becomes the cynosure of human observation.

Inside the aerodrome there was a scene which this old world has never beheld in but one other place—in the park of the Aero Club of France. There was a big barn for airships. Their great yellow, silken bodies were gently undulating with the pressure of wind from without and the pressure of gas from within. The air was heavy with the smell of hydrogen gas. Workmen ran here and there, busy with rigging and fitting and preparing to ease off the ships that sail the dry seas.

A short, thick-set, blonde, smooth-faced man of slightly more than middle age—a man who looks like a Scotchman and has a determined mouth like a Highland warrior—stood about the airship with the energy of a dozen cranberry merchants.

Crowd Presses to See Baldwin.

"Who is he?" the crowd asked.

"Baldwin, I. S. Baldwin, a captain, a Californian, the man who owns the ship."

The crowd pressed in to get a good look at Baldwin.

Suddenly there was a cheer out from the run of the crowd. It rolled in to the center. Someone was coming.

"Knabenshue! Hurrah for Knabenshue!" Knabenshue is slight and brown and something like 30 years of age.

He is no proud little Scotchman, trending around on the eggs of his dignity, with new gloves showing out of his breast pocket and his trousers turned up.

No, Knabenshue is just a good-looking, plain-looking, gritty-looking young American, without airs or affectations, with just a suggestion of amusement turning on his thin lips, and his face lighted with the enthusiasm of the line, daring sport he is having.

Baldwin looks up at Knabenshue as he arrives. Baldwin salutes him twice—once for his grit and once to acknowledge his arrival.

The California Arrow is floated out of her stall with a dozen men holding her down. She strains at her leashes like an eagerhound. Bellowing and beautiful she is, with the gas bulging her cylindrical body and her silken covering shimmering yellow in the sun.

Knabenshue steps into the frame righting. The crowd presses back. Baldwin rushes here and there to see that all is right. The gasoline motor begins to thrum. The two large paddles begin to flap the air, and Knabenshue, getting the word, cries:

"Let go, all!"

Thousand Throats Roar Farewell.

There is a bound of the great yellow flag. A huge shadow runs off across the lot. Thousands of throats roar a farewell, and the airship goes off to the heights, making for the high fence with its sharp bow slightly lifted, and sails over and out into space.

Listen! There is a tide of cheering beginning inside the aerodrome rolling off down the hill into the Fair, rising far away on the heights, and the high fence with its sharp bow slightly lifted, and sails over and out into space.

They have seen him. They are all watching him. They can hear the pop-pop of his motor. There is a sea of faces upturned. There are exclamations of admiration, expressions about "the nerve of the man," winning fears that the ship will blow up, speculations as to the height of the thing, and people walking around with no thought of where they are going. Their eyes never leaving the mounting ship, their feet treading high to make sure of the ground, and men with their collars off that they may the more easily look up.

Santos-Dumont's Feats Equalled.

Really, now, the Bois de Boulogne doesn't seem to have anything on the shiner. Road just at this moment. All that Santos-Dumont has done over the Bois, Knabenshue is doing over the Road. He is controlling his ship with perfect ease. He can make it run any way he wants. He can chase birds with it, or fly high or low, east or west, or over the cuckoo's nest—it is only a matter of a little twist of the wrist.

There are some of you who remember the adventures of Santos-Dumont as we saw the California Arrow boring off into the north. We remember the incident at Longchamp, when the wind carried him into a tree and left him hanging like a bat in one of the upmost branches of a willow. He Knabenshue will make sure to keep far over the trees.

We remember, too, the incident of Santos-Dumont being rescued from the cornice of one of the big hotels of Paris, and how he was rescued, sailing over the Mediterranean, off the palace of the Prince of Monaco, and how he was rescued by the cool sea winds, saw it all mount into the upper end of his ship, and found himself hanging in space, his ship entirely up-ended and the propeller trying to turn him upside down.

But Knabenshue meets with none of these misadventures. He sails on and on, out into the soft sea of space, the skies of mauve and amethyst, with the haze of the Indian summer, but with his form, with the silk body of the ship, seeming a translucent, ethereal thing, and with not one bird flying to dispute his complete mastery of space.

There is a hum of excitement in the throng at the Fair.

He is turning! The ship comes about nobly in response to a helm hard down. There is an instant's view of her broadside, a flash of sunlight on the lacy paddles, and she points into the south and back to the aerodrome.

Joy, she is going straight ahead! Nearer, nearer!

Any, she is going straight ahead! Nearer, nearer!

FAIRBANKS SAYS CORRELATE CHARGE IS "PERSONALITIES"

Vice-Presidential Candidate on the Republican Ticket Deplores "The Attempt to Divert Public Attention From Great Questions."

WANTS THE DEBATE RAISED TO HIGH GROUND

"It Is Incredible," He Says, That Parker "Should Give Utterance to a Charge so Utterly Groundless Against His Opponent."

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Nov. 2.—Senator Fairbanks began the day's work with a speech at Michigan City, and a portion of his remarks had direct reference to Judge Parker's New York and Newark addresses, and particularly that part of them which concerned Chairman Cortis. Referring to Parker's charges, he said: "In the face of great national questions which should be debated and fairly determined, mere personalities seem out of place."

"Questions involving the happiness of the people and the destiny of the republic should be lifted up and considered upon a high level. The fact is to be deplored that personalities have been dragged into the present campaign by the opposition. It is an obvious attempt to divert public attention from the great questions with respect to which democracy stands discredited before the American people. It is to be regretted that the honorable candidate for the presidency on the Democratic ticket makes the suggestion that the President and the chairman of the Republican National Committee have prostituted their position to aid in the collection of campaign funds. It is incredible that a candidate for the high office of President of the United States should give utterance to a charge so utterly groundless. He does himself injustice and he affronts the intelligence of the American people when he imputes to his opponent an act so unworthy and so absolutely unfounded."

"In the face of great national problems how utterly insignificant personalities become. We must not allow our minds to be diverted by them from a contemplation of the great fact that Democratic policies are paralyzing and that Democratic administration is destructive to our national developments. Personalities have no place in discussion of these great questions fraught with mighty consequences to the American people. We should take the debate, involving the destiny of the republic, out of the swamps of personality and personal detraction and put it on the high level where questions involving the destiny of the republic should be considered."

noiser, nearer she comes: Now she is just off the tips of our upturned chins. Now she is straight ahead, and we are back of us, and we could find flat on our backs with sheer fixatedness of gaze, not minding it a bit, if we broke down and we could find a bargain price to pay for a sight like this.

O, little Alberto Santos-Dumont, come here and look! Here is your dirigible, ship, with a young American walking back and forth on the ponderous frame, in the Brazilian wood, with the breeze blowing around the trees. Here is a new, strange ship cruising through these "hibernated" seas; you are about to call your own.

What would it be that she sails over now? It is the Longchamps of Knabenshue—the Philippines. She curves gracefully over its tree-tops and its bamboo roofs. Knabenshue is sailing over the Philippines. The little brown men applaud him with such a beating of tom-toms and such a snatching of hats and poles as the "fair had never heard."

"Look! The American!" Knabenshue put the ship about again, and went off with the wind to the north. He sailed into the air, and made a wide aerial circle off to the east and headed for the Philippines a second time. The boom-boom of the lake dwelling grows louder and louder down in the valley. The wind blows from the north. The little motor. The roads of the Fair were black with people, and every eye was fixed upon the wonderful airship, cruising about in space.

It uplifts the souls of us into a glorious shadow of the fabled of the air! The ship sailed around and back to the starting point. It had been up more than half an hour and it had sailed some five or six miles. It swept back with the wind to a point west of the aerodrome, and then it sailed down to the ground. He let out gas, and moved forward on the same, pointed his ship down, down, down. It was so easily and so gracefully done that it seemed like a dream of what Kipling calls "the beautiful things we are going to do."

The crowd in the aerodrome broke and ran for the landing place. It is pretty hard to stand in your tracks when an airship comes down in the next breath. A score of strong hands caught the frame of the ship as it settled, and Knabenshue lifted his cap to the cheering crowd.

He was the American Santos-Dumont, the motor.

"Dadaboo of yore, and his son learns who were upon their backs those wings of wax we read of in the almanac."

Except that his wings are of better stuff than wax. He has off to Baldwin and Knabenshue. We had a big dream of the Fair, and this man with the tenacity of a Scot and the youth with the gift of a lion have made it true.

low a rebate of 10 per cent on Vaughan's bill if he would pay in advance. Vaughan asked if it would be all right for him to make the payment Monday, and Loring replied that it would be.

Monday morning, Vaughan says, he made out two checks. One was for $16, due as a balance on last week, and the other was for $30.40, the amount, less $16.00 of his bill for the ensuing week. He says he gave both checks to a man known to him only as "Ed."

Vaughan, his mother and his sisters had two rooms on the first floor, and Vaughan says he started from this room to go through the hall and out to the street a few minutes before 9:30 o'clock in the morning. His mother and sisters followed him. Loring was seated in a chair.

As Vaughan passed he says Loring called to him. "You have not settled for your rooms and board yet."

Vaughan says he replied that he had settled, giving the checks to "Ed."

"Yes, but the checks were not for the right amount," Vaughan says Loring replied.

A quarrel then ensued over the agreement between the men, and Loring, according to Vaughan, declared if the rest of the amount he claimed he would not pay. Vaughan says he did not move a step, and the expiration of the time for which he had paid, and declared that Loring then sprang from his chair and struck him on the cheek.

Says He Carried Weapon by Chance. Vaughan says Loring continued to attack him, and pushed him back. Vaughan's mother and sisters struggled to restrain Loring, but he shook them off and started at Vaughan again, making a motion, according to Vaughan, as though to draw a revolver. Vaughan says he then drew his own revolver and began to shoot. Vaughan says he went downtown at once and went to the office of John H. Holmes, Commercial building, and surrendered himself. He remained there, he says, until Vaughan declares he put his revolver in his pocket this morning for the purpose of taking it to a gunsmith to have it cleaned. He did not explain why he did not remove the cartridges from it.

Vaughan's face, at the time of the interview, did not show any mark of the blow which he said Loring had inflicted. Vaughan's attention was called to the statement of Robert Candy, the negro houseman, that Loring did not rise from his chair until after the first shot was fired. He said Candy was mistaken; that Loring had attacked him before the shooting began.

At the scene of the shooting it was stated that Loring had no weapon when he was shot. Candy, the houseman who witnessed the shooting, says Loring was still seated when he got to the edge of the apartment house, after the first shot, and did not attempt to arise until Vaughan was firing his second time.

Father Sentinel by Body of Son. Immediately after the shooting, Judge Loring, gray haired and heart-broken, limped painfully to a chair beside the body of his son, sunk to it, and is reported to have been in a state of collapse. His wife and children, themselves almost crazed with grief and anger, pleaded with him in vain to leave the tragic scene. He maintained his vigil, his aged shoulders bent and his tear-filled eyes gazing upon the features of his dead son.

COWS MUST STOP LASHING MILKERS

Invention to Make Bossy Keep Her Tail Still Shown at World's Fair.

Cow tail holders, sanitary cuspidors, non-rebelling bottles, weed pullers, milking machines, hay stackers, comb cleaners, burglar-proof door locks and new-fangled double-decker dish pans are among the interesting products that may be turned out wholesale by the American Manufacturing Co. if the two score and ten inventors now in session at the World's Fair succeed in effecting the organization of this corporation.

The plan of the promoter, J. M. Cripe of Mattison, Ill., is to organize a million-dollar corporation, accept of several alleged proffered money offers, and assign the inventors in return for the exclusive privilege of manufacturing their inventions, and then get busy. It is this plan that the invention is now trying to work out. This is the second year they have been discussing ways and means.

Already each inventor in attendance and, it is announced, 450 who are absent have notified Mr. Cripe and Secretary D. H. Bailey of Loveland, Ia., of the nature of the invention they are willing to assign to the prospective corporation in return for stock.

Notable in the collection is the cow tail holder, which is offered by William H. Osborn, a distinguished-looking delegate from Kokomo, Ind. This invention is made of wire.

"It slips under the cow's tail," Mr. Osborn explains "and prevents the cow from swishing its tail around and striking the milker in the face. It also prevents a cow from kicking, if strapped tightly, and it also prevents her from spilling the milk."

Sanitary cuspidors are offered to the corporation by the only woman delegate, Mrs. S. L. Feathers of Prairie City, Ia.

This Dishpan Double Decker. "They are designed for use in hospitals," Mr. Cripe says. Mrs. Feathers also offers a patent skirt supporter.

Mrs. Maggie C. Fox of Pueblo, Colo., is on the books of the embryo corporation for a truly womanly invention—a dishpan. Secretary Bailey states that from his correspondence with Mrs. Fox he understands that this dishpan has two decks, a faucet in the lower one, by means of which dishes may be rinsed as well as washed.

H. A. and A. Ewald of Oakfield, Wis., contribute a patent which the corporation can afford to manufacture jointly with the invention of Mr. Osborn—a cow manger. Mr. Cripe and Bailey announce that this patent is made of rubber and that in some way not made exactly clear, it provides sufficient suction to work automatically when once started and draw milk from a cow without animal assistance.

The invention which will likely become most popular of all those offered to the American Manufacturing company is the traveler's lock of Henry Spear. Mr. Spear is an inventor of the Ohio live line, a historic capital, Richmond. According to Mr. Cripe, the lock will close any door so that it cannot be opened from the outside.

"If a traveler gets into a room at a strange house or hotel," he recites, "he may lock his door all right from the inside. But he has no assurance that somebody else around the place has not a key that will fit the door and who can, therefore, open it from the outside while he sleeps. If the traveler has valuables he would prefer that the door remain tightly closed. That's what Mr. Spear's invention assures. It is a contrivance that fits against the wall just where the door closes on it. It is fastened there and then when you slam the door on it, nobody can get it open except the man inside. It's the only key can then open the door from without."

A Missouri delegate offers a weed-puller. The inventor happens to be a Missourian and a minister of the gospel. He is Rev. E. C. Koeth of Doe Run.

He has a theory of the most successful prayer at the opening meeting of the organization and was then unanimously chosen as presiding officer.

"Mr. Koeth has an apparatus by means of which man can put his feet on the ground, stop down to the ground," says Mr. Cripe. "Not only that but his invention, after jerking a rod out of the ground, restores the earth to its normal position, leaving no hole."

Non-rebelling bottles are contributed both by Rev. P. A. Smith of Morrisville, Va., and Dr. H. A. Buttner of 2177 Nebraska avenue, St. Louis. Neither Mr. Cripe nor Mr. Bailey, however, is able to explain the theory of the non-rebelling bottle.

J. E. Bedell of 100 Lafayette avenue has thrown an invention of a "sewer cup" into the corporation. Promoter Cripe has added a self-heating radiator and a self-heating radiator and a self-heating radiator to catch a cold, and then adjust the heat rather to its original position, thus saving the labor of a man to attend it.

The prize invention of the lot, however, if it becomes practicable, is offered by Dr. Marcus de la Garza of Chihuahua, Mex. It is a solar heating apparatus, and is declared able to furnish enough

RESERVOIR BREAK SWEEPS AWAY FIFTY HOMES

Winston, N. C. Water Supply Destroyed by Weakening of a Wall and Many Persons Are Drowned in the Flood.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WINSTON, N. C., Nov. 2.—The reservoir which supplied water to Winston and Salem, which was practically a part of the city, burst at 5:30 this morning.

The north wall gave way with a roar which was heard all over the surrounding country and a million gallons of water poured through the gap in a mighty river which swept away every house in its path. The territory near the reservoir is thickly settled, but 50 houses were in the direct path of the torrent and were swept away, broken and collapsing.

It is not known how many persons were in these houses, but it is known to be dead and many others are supposed to be lost as their friends can find no trace of them.

Martin Peoples, his entire family and five families of negroes are among the dead.

All the mills are closed because their supply of water is cut off and the working people are flocking to the scene of the accident.

Winston is the capital of Forsyth County, North Carolina, contiguous to Salem, about 27 miles west of Greensboro and 35 miles northeast of Salisbury. It has an academy, one daily paper, three weekly papers, a bank, several churches, cotton woolen mills, a shuttle and a bobbin works, a number of tobacco factories, an iron foundry and a population of about 12,000. The construction of the cotton mills increased the population from 2500 in 1880 to 8000 in 1890, the greatest rate of growth noted in the census of the South.

SOLD BY THE TRUSTEE. St. Louis' Finest Furnishing Goods Store Sold to the Highest Bidder.

D. C. Carlin, trustee for J. V. Johnston, successor to D. L. Parrish, sold the entire stock of high-grade men's furnishings in the Holland building, Seventh and Olive, to the highest bidder yesterday afternoon.

Every large department store in the city was represented at the sale. Spirited bidding was done for the possession of their stock of high-grade men's stock. The store was finally sold to the Globe, Seventh and Franklin avenue, for $24 cents on the dollar. It is understood that the stock will be moved to the Globe's store.

TO DISPLAY BIG FUR STOCK. Great Northern and Alaska Co. Will Open New Store Thursday.

The Great Northern and Alaska Fur Co., a new concern to St. Louis, will open its store at the corner of Seventh and Locust streets.

Carrying what it says is the largest stock of furs of any concern in the city, the new store has placed its goods at such low prices that competitors will have to put in the knife to equal the bargains that will be offered.

Receiving raw furs from the original source of supply the Great Northern and Alaska Fur Co. feels that it can be in a position to undersell jobbers who have a large stock of furs.

"From the fur-bearing animal to the wearer, is what the new firm says, and its advertisement shows many bargains in furs of all kinds, which will soon be in the hands of the public."

Mink clusters, Isabella scarfs, Turkish Angora sets and natural Stone Marten scarfs among the special bargains which are mentioned for the opening day.

Keep Your Money Until Cured. Cancer, tumor, sores, goitre, rectal disease, hydrocele and varicocele. Dr. B. F. Tomlin, 1100 Mississippi avenue.

HE WAS MARRIED IN KILTS. LONDON, Nov. 2.—Helen Phillips daughter of Henry Phillips of Pittsburgh, Pa., and New York, and Bradley Martin, Jr., were married today at Kilmarly Parish Church, Iverness-shire, Scotland, by the Archdeacon of London, Dr. Sinclair.

There were car loads of guests who sent freight car loads of presents. The bridegroom and his attendants wore highland costume. Kilts and tartan. The bride was in highland dress.

Kaiser on Joys of the Chase. BERLIN, Nov. 2.—Emperor William unveiled today in the middle of the Tiergarten, Berlin's principal park, groups of sculpture celebrating the chase. The groups are by Professors Begas and Uchitzki, and other sculptors, and were made according to the Emperor's suggestions. After the unveiling the Emperor and his guests had breakfast at the palace, where his majesty made a speech on the joys of the chase.

MIXERS DEPORT OWNER'S SON

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Nov. 2.—E. A. Colburn, Jr., has been deported from that camp by miners and warned never to return. Young Colburn is a son of Judge E. A. Colburn, president of the Cripple Creek Mine Owners' Association. It is presumed that Colburn was deported in consequence of his father's active participation in the fight against the Western Federation of Miners in Colorado. A dispatch from Tonopah says that the spokesman of the party that escorted Colburn out of Goldfield to Tonopah was only 21 miles, and that he had been forced to walk from Cripple Creek, 40 miles, to Canon City, with his body covered with welts.

SHE AND THE

Runaway Girl of High Society. H. Beck, a wealthy farmer living near Burlington, Mo., ran away from home, visited St. Louis and the World's Fair for four days, and spent only $11. The girl returned home Wednesday with her father, who came from Burlington with a suitcase to find her. She has written a letter to a girl friend telling of the sights of the Fair and through this her address was obtained. Special Officer Fox found the girl at 106 Fifth Street Tuesday. She was willing to accompany her father. She left home with $30 and returned with $15.

MISS JULIA MARLOWE
Heartily Approves of Peruna for the Nerves.

In a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., Miss Julia Marlowe of New York City writes the following:

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peruna, as a nerve tonic. I do so most heartily."—Julia Marlowe.

Nervousness is very common among women. This condition is due to anemic nerve centers. The nerve centers are the reservoirs of nervous vitality. These centers become bloodless for want of proper nutrition. This is especially true in the spring season. Every spring a host of invalids are produced as the direct result of weak nerves.

"This can be easily obviated by using Peruna. Peruna strikes at the root of the difficulty by correcting the digestion.

Digestion furnishes nutrition for the nerve centers. Properly digested food furnishes these reservoirs of life with vitality which leads to strong, steady nerves, and thus nourishes life.

Peruna is in great favor among women, especially those who have vocations that are trying to the nerves. Peruna furnishes the lasting vigor for the nerves that such people need. Thousands of testimonials from women in all of the United States are being received every year. Such unqualified evidence proves that Peruna is without a peer as a nerve tonic and a vital invigorant.

BOGUS PAPERS USED FOR REGISTRATION?

First of Four Men Charged With Fraudulent Naturalization Will Be Tried Today.

SALOONKEEPER GIVES BOND

Other Three Men Spend Night in Jail—One Says Lavin Assisted Him.

The case of Michael Sullivan of 941 West Cabanne court, who was arrested Tuesday morning by the United States marshal, was heard before Judge J. H. McLaughlin today. The case of Francis Nestor of 6042 Horton place, arrested on a similar charge, will be taken up Thursday and that of Charles C. McCarthy of 1223 Cockrell avenue also arrested on a similar charge, will be heard Friday. James Curran, a saloonkeeper at 6084 Maple avenue, who was arrested on the same charge, waived a preliminary hearing and gave bond Tuesday in the sum of $1000, with John S. Carter of the Commonwealth Trust Co. as surety. The three men arrested deny knowledge of any wrongdoing. McCarthy stated he was accompanied to the courthouse by John J. Lavin, a committeeman from the Twenty-eighth ward, but says that he asked Lavin to accompany him and that Lavin did not get his papers until 20 days after he went to the courthouse, and that they were delivered to him at the suburban car barn, where he was employed. Nestor and Sullivan said they were accompanied by Nestor's brother, John Nestor, of No. 22 engine station. The latter visited the Federal building Tuesday afternoon and admitted accompanying the men to the courthouse. E. Barrett, formerly marshal of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, was in the room when the papers were issued. The papers upon which the men are alleged to have registered, and which have been issued by the Court of Appeals, John E. Murphy, clerk of the court, saw the papers and pronounced the signature of his name a forgery. He said that in this opinion, the writing of that of Thomas E. Barrett, former marshal of the court, who is now under sentence of five years in the penitentiary for naturalization frauds.

HORSE BEFRIENDED BY SOCIAL LEADER

Humane Society to Investigate a Case Called into Its Attention.

An emaciated and decrepit horse which should have been out at grass on the lawn of the Home for Deaf and Dumb, was observed by the humane society. The horse was found on Chestnut street Monday afternoon trying to haul a load of wood, rummaging sadly on the fate that compelled him to do hard labor at his time of life and in his state of health.

He stumbled and fell, groaning with the strain and upon him was observed his agony as there stopped beside him a shining carriage drawn by two handsome and sprightly young fellows of his kind.

From the carriage stepped Mrs. Jordan W. Lambert of 52 Vandeventer place, who ordered the driver to immediately unhitch the old horse. The driver was not without bowels of compassion himself, and explained to the lady that the horse did not belong to him, but to Joseph A. Berger, a coal and wood dealer at Main and Lynch streets, by whom he was employed.

Patrolman Smith was called and Mrs. Lambert asked him to have the poor beast taken to the livery stable of J. Engle nearby, and given a good dinner of oats. Mrs. Lambert then drove to the Four Courts and filed a complaint against Berger, whose horses will be examined by the humane society and the police.

Mrs. Lambert has frequently come to the aid of abused animals in the past.

POSTMASTER WYMAN SUMMONED

Chemical Company Seeks Restraining Order to Prevent Withholding Its Mail.

Judge Elmer B. Adams of the United States District Court, as told in late editions of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, has issued a summons for Postmaster Frank Wyman to appear before him Nov. 10 to show cause why he should not be restrained from holding the mail of the Fallopia-Lynn Chemical Co., manufacturer of medicine, of St. Louis. The postoffice department at Washington issued a fraud order against the Fallopia-Lynn company July 8, last, and Postmaster Wyman was instructed by the postmaster-general to withhold all mail from the company. The chemical company declares the order is illegal because of the fact that when summoned to Washington on April 20 last to explain their case they were heard by an assistant attorney-general of the postoffice department and not by the postmaster-general. The company asserts that its business is conducted lawfully and that it has been seriously embarrassed by the withholding of its mail.

Shah of Persia Has Six Fanatics
Behanded for Murder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Shah of Persia has wreaked remarkable vengeance for the murder of the Rev. Benjamin W. Labaree, who was killed by a fanatic assassin near Urmia, Persia, last March. Minister Richmond Pearson, who has just returned from Tehran, reported to the state department today that an expedition sent out to punish Dr. Labaree's murderers had executed six of the fanatics and brought the heads of two of them to Tehran on pikes.

Bank Clerks to Meet.

"What Are the Relative Advantages of National Banks and State Banks?" will be one of the leading topics of discussion.

FILIPINO HOUSES FOR WEALTHY ONLY

Philippine Exhibits at the World's Fair to Be Sold by Government Agents.

SUMMER HOMES COST $3500

They Are Built of Bamboo Poles and the Sale Price Will Be Below Cost.

Bamboo houses made in the Philippines and adapted for use as summer homes are offered to St. Louis millionaires at a bargain by the United States government. The offer includes furnishings and curios from the Philippines in unlimited variety. The houses and other articles for sale form a part of the Philippine exhibition at the World's Fair. Included in the list of the buildings are the nipa houses which contain the forestry and agricultural exhibits, the nipa theaters and the nipa huts of the Igorrote, Moro and Negrito villages. Any one who wishes, and is willing to pay the price, may have an Igorrote hut for a summer house. That the summer homes will not be cheap, however, is indicated by the fact that the government asks $350 for each bamboo pole in their make-up. In the entire Philippine exposition 75,000 poles were used and it is estimated that at least 1000 will be needed to build a comfortable summer house. These would cost $3500. The poles are 50 feet long and cost 50 cents each in the Philippines. The freight on them from Manila to St. Louis averaged about $350 a pole. Consequently the government is trying to sell out at a loss. Purchasers of the houses will not be able to take possession until the close of the World's Fair. Then the nipa houses will be torn down with the others. The purchaser of a house will gather up his poles and build a house where he wishes to erect a summer home. Other Philippine articles for sale are pictures and statuary, articles of gold and silver, ivory, shell, brass, bronze and bone, silk, pincushions and handkerchiefs, handkerchiefs and embroidery, beadwork and fine samples of wood carving from billiard parlor. The government sales office is in the government building of the Philippine reservation.

NEGRO IS HELD BY POLICE.

World's Fair Visitor Says He Was Attacked and Robbed.

The police are looking for a negro woman, who is alleged to have been in company with Nelson Rogers, colored, of 1519 Linden street, when Charles Carson of Arlington, Mo., was robbed of his watch and money. Charles Carson, between Thirtieth and Thirtieth street, between Thirtieth and Thirtieth street, was robbed of his watch and money. Carson's crime for help attracted Private Watchman James McIntyre, who, after a chase of several blocks, arrested Nelson. Carson is said to have identified the woman who robbed him. The woman escaped.

Brave Women

Women's delicate nerve organism subjects them to so much suffering that it is almost inconceivable how they manage to fulfill the various household and social duties, and yet they do—and suffer. It is because they are brave.

As a rule they understand the nature of their delicate organism, but overlook the wonderful influence their nervous system has upon their general health.

They are not sufficiently impressed with the fact that all their ills are directly traceable to the nervous system.

That their periodical sufferings and headaches are due to weakened nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

has been wonderfully successful in revitalizing the nerves and curing all cases of nervous disorder and loss of vitality. Thousands of delicate women have regained their health and vigor by using this thoughtfully formulated medicine.

From a thin, nervous wreck, miserable and wretched, I am now enjoying splendid health, and it is all traceable to your splendid medicine, Dr. Miles' Nervine. —MRS. MAUD MONEY, who writes: "I first bottle fails to benefit."

RUSSIANS ADMIT FIRING AT THEIR OWN TRANSPORT

Confusion on the Ships of the Fleet in the North Sea Admitted by Officers to Have Been the Cause of Firing on the Trawlers.

SUSPICIONS OF ENGLAND COLOR RUSSIAN OPINION

London Newspapers Dissatisfied With the Government's Course in Permitting the Second Pacific Squadron to Leave Vigo.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 2.—The circumstances of the firing by the Russian fleet on the trawlers in the North Sea as detailed by Russian officers closely resemble the facts reported by the admirals of the fishing fleet. When abreast of the trawlers the Russian squadron was formed into two divisions, the cruisers steaming east and the battleships west, the latter getting among the fishing fleet and opening fire. When nearly clear of the fishing craft, which were heading toward the battleships, some Russian shells flew over the trawlers and struck cruisers, one of which, the Aurora, was hit several times and some of her men were wounded, including a priest, who died. The transport Anatol apparently became tangled among the trawlers, which she mistook for torpedo boats, and signalled for aid, thereby leading the officers of the battleships to believe the trawlers were attacking the Anatol. This coupled with the appearance of two mysterious "torpedo boats" steaming towards the battleships, resulted in the fatal cannonade.

The four officers detached from the Baltic squadron to testify regarding the North Sea affair are expected to reach St. Petersburg in two days. It is hoped they will be able to throw a clear light upon this mysterious incident.

The news of the departure of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky and his ships from Vigo has considerably relieved the tension here. The great mass of Russians are quite as suspicious of Great Britain's motive as Britons are of Russia's purposes, and there has been considerable apprehension here that Great Britain might use the trawler incident as a pretext for detaining the Baltic squadron. This apprehension is now largely allayed, though fears are expressed in some quarters that there may be further complications before the fleet gets through the Suez canal or around the Cape of Good Hope. The situation, however, is being more dispassionately discussed, and charges against the fishermen are no longer declaimed. Due allowance is also made for the exasperation of Great Britain over the seemingly callous action of Admiral Rojestvensky in going his way after firing on the trawlers and not stopping the incident until he reached Vigo. The explanation offered from the highest source seems to acquit the admiral of all blame. It is pointed out that he could not send a dispatch by a torpedo boat, all of which that description being ahead of the battleships and cruisers, and that he had no alternative except to detach a cruiser. Admiral Rojestvensky has too apprehensive of revealing his whereabouts to do this, fearing an attack in British waters, and so, it is theorized, decided to proceed to Vigo with the whole of his squadron.

THE BRITISH PRESS IS STILL UNSATISFIED

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The fact that Admiral Rojestvensky with a fleet of ships from Vigo is not to the liking of a considerable section of the British press. A consideration of the actual words Premier Balfour used in his speech at Southampton last Friday night shows that he did not promise that the fleet would be detained at Vigo, but that it would be the general impression drawn by the public from his utterances, and accordingly there is keen disappointment at the turn the affair has taken.

The Morning Post says: "Mr. Balfour's chief care seems to have been to save Russia's honor," and the more jingo papers are frankly puzzled at the unexpected development in the situation. A majority of the morning newspapers, however, are content to refer to Tuesday's war alarms and to regard all well that ends well.

It is understood that Admiral Rojestvensky, with his squadron, is on the way to join the Russian vessels now at Tangier.

APPENDIX IN CORNER STONE

Brother-in-Law of Late Senator Hanna Makes Unique Contribution at Ceremony.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 2.—The laying of the corner-stone of the new Tavern clubhouse was surrounded by much mystery, but the mystery has been dispelled by the announcement that the iron box imbedded in mortar contains the appendix of Robert L. Hanna, a prominent clubman of this city, a member of the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co., and former vice-president of the American Shipbuilding Co.

Ireland has long been a conspicuous figure in local society, being a brother-in-law of the late Senator Hanna. The Tavern Club is one of the most exclusive clubs in the city. The ceremonies attending the laying of the corner-stone were performed at midnight Halloween and partook somewhat of African fetishism. Ireland several weeks ago was operated upon for appendicitis and his appendix was removed and preserved in a little bottle of alcohol. When it came Ireland's turn to deposit something in the iron box of the corner-stone, he pulled from his pocket this little bottle declaring: "Such is my love for this club that I give a part of myself into the keeping of the corner-stone."

A Destructive Insect.

According to a report recently issued by the census bureau, the boll weevil, or Anthonomus grandis, as it is technically known, destroyed 22,390 bales of cotton crop last year. At 19 cents a pound—and prices for futures went as high as 25 cents during the late boll season—this amount of cotton would be worth $2,256,000. To this the value of seed must be added, and the census bureau, after exhaustive research, fixes the total at $2,728,000.

ED RECORDS OF CANDIDATES FOR ASSEMBLY

Post-Dispatch Shows Voters' Character and Performances. So Far as Known, of City Nominees for Senate and House.

RIECHMANN A NOTORIOUS ZIEGENHEIN HENCHMAN

Bookmaking and Duties of Deputy State Auditor Were Combined by T. J. Leonard. Who Seeks Re-Election to Lower House.

The Post-Dispatch begins today a review of the Republican and Democratic candidates for the legislature from St. Louis, all of whom will be voted on at the general election next Tuesday, Nov. 8.

The Missouri General Assembly will convene at Jefferson City Tuesday, Jan. 3. To that body, which will be composed of 180 members in the two houses, St. Louis will send 16 representatives and three state senators.

The senators elected will be from the Twenty-ninth district, composed of Wards 9, 10 and 11, precincts 12, 13, 14 and 15 of the Twelfth ward and Precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 17 of the Twenty-fourth ward; the Thirty-first, comprising wards 2, 3 and 4, precincts 6, 7, 14 and 15 of the Sixth ward; precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 of the Fourteenth ward, all of ward Fifteen and Precinct 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 of the Sixteenth ward; the Thirty-third district, composed of Wards 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and Precincts 2, 3 and 4 of the Sixteenth ward and Precincts 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14.

The term of a state senator is four years and that of representative two years. In the Thirty-third, Thirty-second and Thirty-fourth districts the holdover senators, whose terms will not expire until 1906, are W. R. Kinsley, David Nelson and John Sartorius.

The accompanying diagrams show the boundaries of the Thirty-third senatorial and the Fifth and Sixth representative districts, from which five legislators will be elected.

The Post-Dispatch herewith presents the records of the candidates on both tickets:

RIECHMANN'S RECORD.

George W. Riechmann, nominated for state senator by the Republican bosses of the Thirty-third district, is a product of Ziegenheimism. He is 38 years old, married and lives at 1217 North Market street.

Riechmann conducts a saloon at Eleventh and Market streets. Under the reign of the "moon-jet-and-it" mayor, he secured a job as street sprinkling superintendent. In October, 1898, he was indicted in connection with the celebrated "F. Mueller" case, wherein it was charged a straw name was carried on the payroll of the street department.

The charge was that "F. Mueller" was the name of an alleged sprinkling inspector who did not inspect his district, No. 10, in 1898, when Henry Busch was superintendent of sprinkling. Riechmann and Busch were saved from prosecution by the action of Judge John A. Talty in sustaining a demurrer alleging that the indictments against them did not set forth facts sufficient to constitute the offense of bribery within the meaning of the law.

Subsequently, when Judge Talty retired from the bench, he became attorney for George W. Riechmann and defended him when the latter was arraigned on an indictment charging him with perjury.

The indictment resulted from frauds alleged to have been perpetrated at the Republican primaries held March 15 last.

The grand jury learned that Riechmann named a delegation in the Eighteenth ward for election to the Republican state convention, but that in order to get a majority of the Republican judges and clerks of the ward favorable to him he entered into an agreement whereby one Albert Wetzel was to put up a bogus rival delegation.

According to the evidence offered the grand jury, Wetzel, for his part in the transaction, was to receive a position in the police department. Soon after the primary Wetzel was appointed a probationary patrolman.

When questioned concerning the matter by the April grand jury, Riechmann denied absolutely that he had made a bargain with Wetzel to enlist the Republican judges and clerks in his behalf, and declared he knew Wetzel only slightly. This statement led to the indictment of Riechmann for perjury.

When the case was called for trial in July, Judge Talty committed a demurrer, tending to show that Riechmann testified money was not material to any matter then under investigation by the grand jury; that no crime had been established, and Riechmann therefore could not have been guilty of willful perjury; that the indictment was defective in that it did not specify definitely the offense of which Riechmann was accused nor recite the names of witnesses nor the judges and clerks whose influence it was alleged he had sought to obtain. On this showing the court dismissed the case.

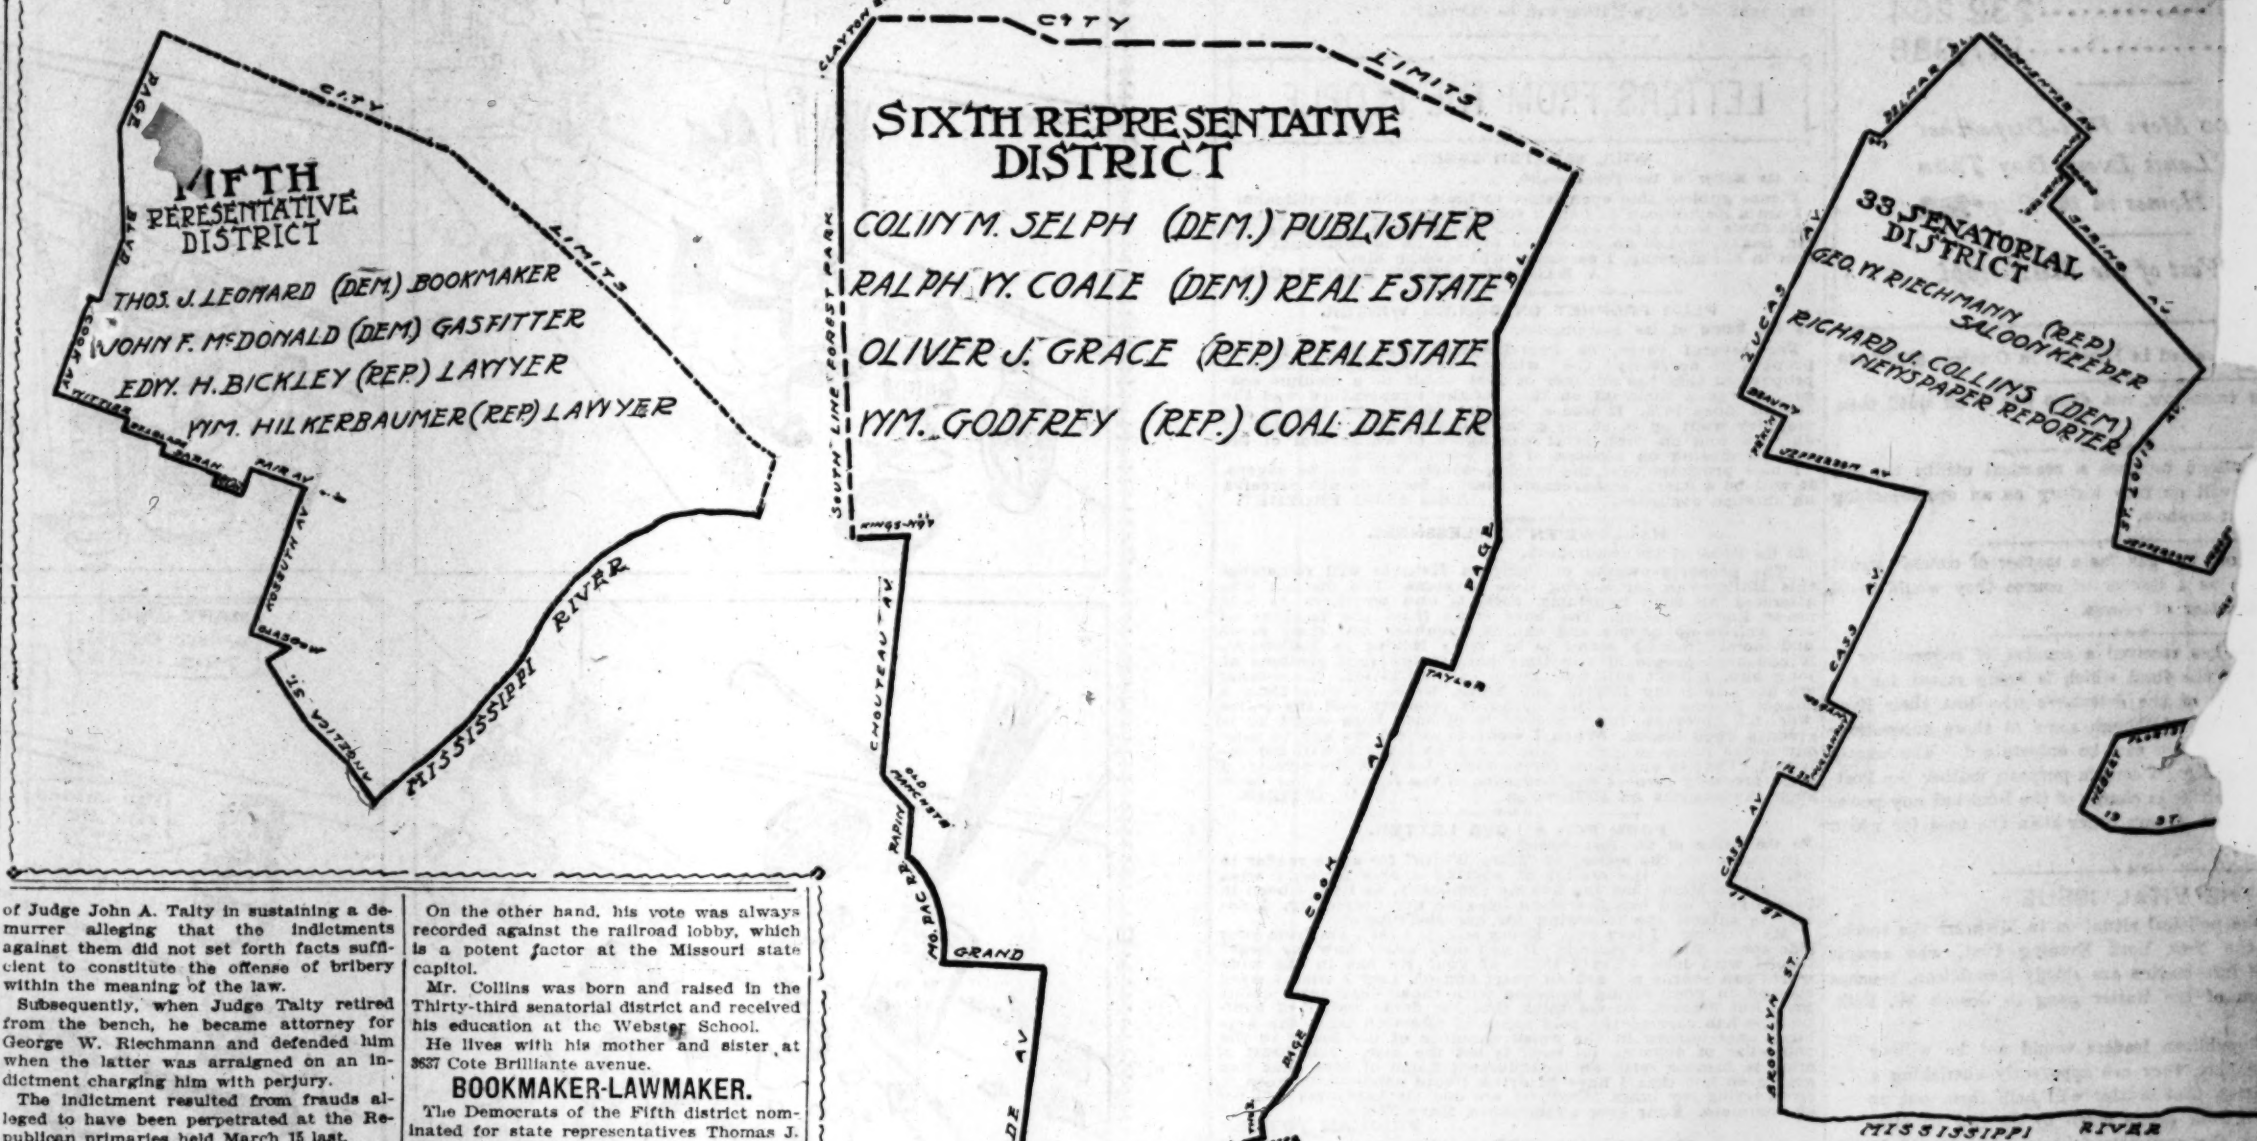

Among other qualifications is the constitutional provision that a member of the legislature must have paid a state and city tax within one year preceding his election. The records of the assessor's office show that George W. Riechmann has never paid an assessment on realty, although he is marked down for $250 personal property.

But the recorder of deeds books show that Riechmann, Oct. 15 last, purchased from J. E. Greffett, a real estate agent, ground valued at $50. Two years ago Mr. Greffett disposed of eight or ten lots, all about one foot square, to aspiring statesmen who desired to qualify themselves to hold office.

Riechmann is the present Republican city central committeeman from the Eighteenth ward, a position he has held since 1900. In his four years of service as central committeeman Riechmann has cost the Republicans of the Eighteenth ward several hundred votes. Under his management two years ago the Republican vote of the Eighteenth ward declined 50 per cent and the following spring Riechmann's candidate for the House of Delegates, Albert Wetzel, was snowed under by W. A. Block, Independent Republican.

The Eighteenth was formerly the banner Republican ward of St. Louis. But since the leadership of the organization was transferred to independent Republicans has refused to support the element of the party whose political interests are advanced by Riechmann and his crowd.

On the other hand, his vote was always recorded against the railroad lobby, which is a potent factor at the Missouri state capitol.

Mr. Collins was born and raised in the Thirty-third senatorial district and received his education at the Webster School.

He lives with his mother and sister, at 3837 Cote Brilliante avenue.

BOOKMAKER-LAWMAKER.

The Democrats of the Fifth district nominated for state representatives Thomas J. Leonard of 226 Easton avenue and John F. McDonald of 3984 Lee avenue.

Leonard is a bookmaker at Delmar race-track. He served in the lower house at Jefferson City two years ago and made a record of lobby subversion. But particularly did Leonard work against public interests as chairman of the House committee on fees and salaries. Representative C. J. Colden of Nodaway County introduced a bill providing for the reduction of the fees of the ex-cadre commissioners of St. Louis. The commissioner then, as now, was deriving from the receipts of his office an income of $18,000 a year. This sum represented 40 per cent of the revenue accruing on the licenses issued under his auspices.

This is equivalent almost to the combined annual salaries of the five state executive officers. It is more than three times the salary of the governor, and is only $10,000 less than the total compensation of the seven supreme judges.

The people of Missouri saw no reason for continuing the commissioner in such financial luxury. The Cardwell case revealed that the office was used as a source of campaign funds for the Democratic party.

Leonard is a bookmaker at Delmar race-track. He served in the lower house at Jefferson City two years ago and made a record of lobby subversion. But particularly did Leonard work against public interests as chairman of the House committee on fees and salaries. Representative C. J. Colden of Nodaway County introduced a bill providing for the reduction of the fees of the ex-cadre commissioners of St. Louis. The commissioner then, as now, was deriving from the receipts of his office an income of $18,000 a year. This sum represented 40 per cent of the revenue accruing on the licenses issued under his auspices.

Mr. Leonard knew all these things. He admitted that the ex-cadre commissioner was getting too much pay, as he expressed it, and when the bill was referred to his committee he declared his intention of recommending its passage, or inducing the committee to do so.

The House, in the early part of the session, adopted a rule requiring all committees to report bills within 10 days after being referred to them. The 10-day period elapsed and there was no report from Leonard's committee. The chairman said he could not get the members together. Yet the members of the committee were on hand every day. Any day they might be called on to report a bill.

Leonard adopted a new tack. He quietly informed his friends that he did not object, even if the newspapers did "roast" him. His purpose was soon clear. Ex-cadre Commissioner Seibert came to Jefferson City and sympathized with Chairman Leonard.

A few days later Leonard announced that "Jim" was going to take care of him by securing from Auditor Allen, whose subversion to Seibert is well known, his appointment as deputy auditor at Delmar race-track when the legislative session closed.

So the bill to cut down the ex-cadre commissioner's salary died in committee. The Post-Dispatch at the time exposed the deal whereby Leonard was to receive a political plum in return for his services to Ex-cadre Commissioner Seibert. Auditor Albert O. Allen, who was to carry out the bargain, became frightened. He sent for Seibert and the deal was declared off for one year.

When the racing season opened last April, Mr. Allen appointed Leonard a deputy auditor, with full power to issue licenses to bookmakers. In addition to these duties, Leonard conducted a book at the track.

John F. McDonald is a gasfitter. He is a political novice, and the fact that the race-tracks seemed to exercise a potent influence over the Fifth district convention has caused the voters to look rather unfavorably upon his candidacy.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS GROW CONFIDENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 2.—Betting on Roosevelt carrying Indiana declined today to 3 to 1. Chairman Taggart, asked for the reason of his confidence, said: "Because we are united and because the laboring men and clerks are with us on the issue of the increased cost of living."

C. A. Walsh of Iowa, former secretary of the Democratic national committee, who has been in Indiana working on the free silver vote, says the silver defection will be much more than offset by gains from the gold Democrats.

John W. Kern, Democratic nominee for governor, said: "It will be a big victory for the Democrats of Indiana. Our organization is the best we have had for 20 years."

Great Parker Reception Planned in Hartford.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 2.—Plans are under way for the biggest reception ever given a candidate in Hartford when Judge Parker comes here Thursday evening. There will be a large number of marching organizations to escort him. The Hubbard escort will have the right of the line. Many of the shop employees here and in New Britain will parade.

Mr. Selph's record in the Fifty-second General Assembly was the subject of frequent criticism on the part of the press of the state and his colleagues of the House.

While professing deep hostility to the lobby, his vote was orally where the lobby wanted it. When legislation affecting corporations was under consideration he was generally on the side of the corporations.

While posing as a friend of the "World's Fair" fight, the anti-ticker-sweeping bill advocated by the Exposition officials.

The Butlerized convention which selected Ernest E. Wood, the unknown, for Democratic congressional honors in the Twelfth district, was held under the auspices of Mr. Selph, who performed the duties of temporary and permanent chairman.

For state representatives the Republicans of the Sixth district nominated Oliver J. Grace of 2418 Pine street and Col. William Godfrey of 4215 Maple avenue.

Col. Godfrey came to St. Louis in 1893. He served three years in the civil war as a member of the Forty-seventh Illinois Infantry. For thirty-three years he has been engaged in the coal business at 1917 North Ninth street. He is a member of the North St. Louis Citizens' Association, and has always taken an active interest in public affairs.

Oliver J. Grace is the son of F. F. Grace, and is secretary of the F. F. Grace and Sons Realty Co. at 100 North Eighth street. Mr. Grace has been active during the past few years in Twenty-second Ward Republican affairs, and has always stood for clean politics.

NEEDLE BURIED IN FLESH.

While crawling on the floor, the eight-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Rudolph of East A street, Belleville, ran a needle deep into its left leg. Piercing screams brought the child's mother, who could find no cause for the child's cries, but noticed a small red spot on the left leg. A doctor was summoned. He located the leg and finally located the needle, which had buried itself deep in the flesh.

THURSDAY THE LAST REGISTRATION DAY

Final Opportunity Will Be Given Voters Absent or Ill During General Period.

Voters who failed to register during the recent period of registration because of illness or absence from the city are registering at the Board of Election Commissioners' headquarters in the City Hall Wednesday.

Two thousand blanks had been given out by noon. Those who get their names on the registration books, entitling them to vote at next week's election, because they were ill during the general registration period in September, have to testify that they were physically unable to get to the polls to register and must present the affidavit of a physician to that effect.

Those who were out of the city during the general registration period must be accompanied by three voters in the precinct in which they reside, who make affidavit that the applicant was at least 50 miles from St. Louis during the registration period.

The City Hall was crowded all day and the election commissioners expect a heavy registration.

Registration is confined to only those who were ill or out of the city during the recent registration period.

Thursday is the last day for emergency registration, and after that voters who have failed to register will be disqualified at the coming election.

RETURNS WILL GO TO CHESTNUT ST. STATION.

The following notice was issued Tuesday by the Board of Election Commissioners: To the Judges and Clerks of Election: On the night of Tuesday, Nov. 8, the newspapers of the city will compile election returns at the Chestnut street police station, as has been the case in former years. In order to facilitate the count, so that early and accurate reports of the day's vote may be given to the public, the Board of Election Commissioners asks that you use every effort to complete, as soon as possible, the count of the vote cast at your respective polling places, fill it out on the blank placed at every booth by the police officer for the purpose, and turn over the same to the policeman stationed at your polling place. The officer will, in turn, take the report to the Chestnut street station. In making out this report kindly follow the instructions on the precinct blanks. This request is made in view of the general interest in the election returns and the necessity of early and accurate information. Yours truly, JAMES McCAFFERTY, Chairman Board Election Commissioners.

Auditor's Bondsman Are Saved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 2.—The Court of appeals reversed the $17,000 judgment against ex-Auditor J. S. Sweeney for money paid Taylor. The court holds the money was illegally paid, but owing to confusion of orders at that time Sweeney's bondsmen are not liable.

CHOKING CATARRH CURED

Mr. Caswell Says, "Hyomel Cured Me."—Your Money Back If It Does Not Cure You.

"Use Hyomel and be cured of catarrh," is what all who have tried it for that disease say to their friends.

O. S. Caswell of North Middleboro, Mass., writes: "Hyomel has relieved me from a choking catarrhal trouble and cleared my head. I am glad to recommend it to my friends."

It is the easiest thing in the world to stop catarrh or a catarrhal cold at its beginning if you use Hyomel. Just breathe the health-giving, balsamic air for a few minutes and your catarrh will be cured. In this and neighboring towns there are hundreds that can testify to the remarkable powers of Hyomel to cure catarrh. Many of the staunchest friends of this remedy began its use with little hope that they would be cured, but as Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. and Judge and Dolph offered to refund the money if it did not benefit, they decided to try it on that plan, and were soon restored to health.

A FARMERS' RAILWAY.

Projected, Planned, Built and Operated by the North Dakota Wheat Growers—The Only Successful One of Its Kind.

The movement of crops was formerly a problem, but railways and trolley lines almost to the farmers' doors now provide transportation, writes Isaac F. Maroonson in the November World's Work. But difficulties arise, such as confronted wheat growers of Ramsey County, North Dakota. These farmers hauled their grain—often a distance of 25 miles—to Devil's Lake, the county seat, through which the Great Northern Railway passed. It kept the farmers hauling grain all winter. They asked Mr. James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad, to build a branch line from Devil's Lake up through their section. Mr. Hill said he could not build. Six of the largest farmers met at a schoolhouse. One of them was Mr. Joseph Kelly, who owned 800 acres of land, and who hauled his wheat 15 miles to Devil's Lake. Mr. Kelly said: "If the Great Northern won't build, we will build." And the farmers built a railroad 25 miles long. They asked every farmer who hauled grain to Devil's Lake to subscribe. Some subscribed $25; others $50. They raised $50,000. They sent a farmer to Duluth to buy ties, and another to St. Paul to buy rail. A land promoter was building a small branch line out of Devil's Lake to the south, and they got him to survey the road. They hired section hands to lay the track. But they needed more money. They bought land along the line and laid out three towns, sold the lots, and used the money to buy an old engine, a day coach and four box cars from the Great Northern Railroad. Then the road was started. It will stop for any farmer at any place. Last year the road made its expenses; it hauled 80,000 bushels of wheat. This year, with the railroad at hand, the farmers planted more wheat, and the road will haul 250,000 bushels. I went to Starkweather, the largest town laid out by the farmers on this road. Two years ago, the site was a flat field. I found it bustling place, with 20 stores and houses, 400 people, a schoolhouse that cost $10,000, three elevators with a capacity of 250,000 bushels, three banks, a newspaper and a church. At the other two towns, which a year ago were farm lots, I found grain elevators, schools and stores. Here is what these farmers had done when they built their railroad: established three towns, increased the price of land along the way 75 per cent, increased their yield of wheat, built schools, established telephones. They made a whole community richer and independent.

THE MIDDLE-AGED WOMAN.

By Nikola Greeley-Smith, Granddaughter of Horace

Nikola Greeley-Smith.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

Within two days we have the stories of a young man of 25 whose infatuation for an elderly spin of 82 won for him an outraged husband's bullet, and of a youth of 17 whose "great love for Bluebell," a middle-aged matron with a son as old as himself, led him to leave his family and disappear with her from public view.

The triumphs of marked features of our day. So great is the vogue of the faintly powdered crow's feet, the sagging jaws and the all too solid flesh of 45 or so that one marvels where the once prized loveliness of sweet-and-twenty may now find favor. The herdenes of the most sensational modern romances wreak havoc in masculine hearts at an age when their mothers got ready to wear caps. The last rose of summer has become the most treasured in all the garden, and it is the early rosebuds that are left blooming alone. The beauty doctor and the masseur reign supreme, and turn out products that are more admired than those of Nature at her best.

It does not seem credible that any young man can prefer a woman of 40 on her looks, or, indeed, admire her, save as he might the ruins of the Coliseum or some other equally ancient relic of departed glory.

It is possible to continue loving a middle-aged woman, to be sure, but it is not possible to a sane person to begin loving her. One may be infatuated with her, to be sure, for the more one sees of infatuations, the better one realizes that they are absolutely independent of any charms of mind or person in the men or women inspiring them—victims of infatuation by the very nature of the mania, lose all sense of proportion, consequently all idea of beauty, and there is apt to be infinitely less difference between John Brown and Tom Jones than there is between Tom and a woman's ideal of him.

Oliver Wendell Holmes once wrote that when any two men met, six persons took part in the conversation, namely, John's idea of John, Thomas' idea of John, and the real John, with as many Thomases to correspond. He forgot in the interesting category the most wonderful person of all, that is Mary Jane's.

Quite as remarkable as of John is John's idea of Mary Jane's idea of John. For in supply all that age has to her, and to do that it is time.

Now, nothing is too tough for imagination to undertake. The more it rejoices in the task before beautifying and idealizing her. It is there is no merit in loving a young beautiful woman, and it is, therefore, heroic to undertake to love a person and bedizened spin of 80 or so.

Sixty-two imposes still more responsibilities, and the man who is a woman of that age could become of an Egyptian mummy.

JUST A MINUTE For POST-DISPATCH Verse and Humor

MR. KNABENSHUE.

The following verses were read last night at a dinner given by the Post-Dispatch Aero Club to Mr. Knabenshue at Faust's.

Hail to Mr. Knabenshue!
He's the bold and brave.
He has Santos-Dumont beat
Forty blocks—what a defeat!
And no one can him surpass
When it comes right down to gas.
For there's no one who on high
Like Roy Knabenshue can fly.

Hail to A. Roy Knabenshue!
No one o'er sailed o'er St. Louis.
Or, as he did, o'er the Fair,
Any time or any where!
Santos-Dumont o'er Paris
Soared a few times, as we see,
But his flight o'er Eiffel Tower
Was not in it—not an hour.

Hail to Mr. Knabenshue!
Nights are bleak but morns are dewy.
And it is a joy to see
Some one soaring, as does he,
Through the wide expanses of air,
O'er the great and glorious Fair,
Seeking, with delighted eyes,
The $100,000 prize.

Hail to Mr. Knabenshue!
He's the pet of all St. Louis.
Since he's shown us how to soar
In the air forevermore.
He's a prince, a king of men,
And we toast him once again.
Since he's taught us—theme for mirth—
How we may "get off of the earth."

As To Banquets.

You know how it is when you go to a banquet.
You never expect to get full.
Oh, no! You are such a virtuous person that no earthly consideration could induce you to over-indulge.
You will go home at 11 o'clock sharp, kiss your wife on her left ear and go to bed decently and in good time, as every man should.

Of course you will.
Isn't that what you tell yourself when you leave the house? And don't you know? Of course you know! It's a mighty poor sort of a man who doesn't know his own mind.
Therefore you go to the banquet.
And they don't do a thing to you.
All they do is to hand you about 57 varieties, and the first thing you know, as the girl in the restaurant says, "you don't know nothing."
You wake up in a cab somewhere out on King's highway about 4 a. m., when you ought to have told the man to take you to Spring and Delmar, and there you are.
You don't remember how it happened; but it happened, all right, all right.
Oh, of course you didn't intend it! But does that relieve the headache? But what's the diff? Mark it "odd" and charge it up to experience.

Be Patient.

Don't kick about the fog and smoke: Remember, oh, remember, That there'll be fiercer days than this Along about December.

The head postmaster gets the "Gen." in front of his name the same as the man who fought for it; and maybe he did fight for it.

The Russians captured Putlanduady yesterday. Well, that'll be about all this time.

A balloonist is naturally flighty.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

RECORD OF DOINGS IN THE MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORLD

STOCKS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE PRICES

Elimination of the War Scare as a Market Factor Causes a Further Recovery and the Close Is Active and Strong at a Higher Level.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The subsidence of the war scare, created by unnecessary rumors circulated yesterday, was responsible for an active and strong opening on Wall street this morning. The initial prices were sharply higher, and Amalgamated Copper was the bright particular feature, gaining over a point on an opening transfer of 15,000.

The exchange at London is open for business again today and the improved sentiment at that point was reflected in a sharp higher range of values.

The advance of $2 per ton in the price of merchant pipe and short bars is taken as a preliminary step to an advance in the prices of wire products. It is also expected that the price of steel billets will shortly be raised to $21. This will be done if the price of steel rails is maintained at $23.

The demands on the equipment companies are still of an excellent volume. Many orders for cars and supplies are being received. The export of nearly four hundred locomotives during the month of October is a striking illustration of the increasing activity in this class of products.

No change is apparent in the strike situation over night, and if anything the situation has been exaggerated in the announcements of the International Paper Co. at Herin, N. H., and the throwing out of employment of the 60 men at this point.

By Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Prices of stocks today rebounded with the passing of fear of a renewal of the Anglo-Russian crisis and the international stocks were prominent in the recovery with the exception of a sprinkling of Pacifics and grangers, which were slightly lower. Amalgamated Copper was the feature on the sale of 15,000 shares at 72 and 73, compared with 71 1/2 last night. There were heavy dealings in Union Pacific at an advance of 3/4, Westinghouse Electric, North American, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Santa Fe, and Chicago Great Western.

Selling orders predominated after the opening and the initial gains were generally canceled. Amalgamated Copper advanced to 72 and Sugar sold a fraction under yesterday's closing. Near 11 o'clock, the market rallied, Sugar and Amalgamated Copper recovering fully the latter rising to about 73. Rock Island preferred, Smelter, Colorado Fuel and several others advanced 1/4 to 1/2. Lackawanna dropped 1/4. Advances reached 1 1/4 in Canadian Pacific, Erie first and second preferred, Colorado Southern, General Electric and Erie preferred, 1 1/4 in Central of New Jersey and 1 1/2 in Pacific and Distillers Securities. Erie was bought on a large scale and continued its advance to 1 1/4 after the close. The market recovered after the close and Rock Island preferred fell back 1/4, but the market recovered at noon.

Bonds were irregular.

CURE FOR DULL TIMES.

Commissioner Will Tell Merchants Thursday.

He will be held Thursday afternoon at the Hall of Congresses at the fair, which is expected to result in a permanent organization of the increase of trade between the states and the countries of the tropics.

The meeting will be attended by members of the Latin-American Club, by various manufacturers and exhibitors at the World's Fair officials. Russell Thompson, a member of the World's Fair commission from Honduras, will give an address on Honduras and its business conditions. He says he can show that the methods employed in Honduras effectively prevent business depression.

DENTIST LOST

FIGHT FOR LIFE

Dr. L. A. Gebhard Murdered in His Office at New Ulm, Minn., After Terrible Struggle.

NEW ULM, Minn., Nov. 2.—Dr. L. A. Gebhard, a dentist, was found murdered in his office here. The crime is mysterious, as no motive has been discovered.

The chance visitor who called on the dentist found the room in confusion, showing evidences of a life and death struggle. Blood was spattered on the walls and the furniture overturned.

The face was gashed in many places and a blood-stained knife and hammer were found near the body.

The safe in the office was found open, but nothing in it was disturbed.

DEATH GRANTS

DISMISSAL TO

"KID" SHERIDAN

Former Member of House of Delegates. Appellant From Bribery Convictions. Passes Away at Jefferson Hospital.

HELD SEAT AS LAWMAKER, BUT NEVER DREW SALARY

Bribery Charge Would Have Come Up for Trial Nov. 10. Continuances Being Caused by Illness—Was Familiar Figure.

Death dismissed the case of the State of Missouri against John A. ("Kid") Sheridan at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Sheridan died at Jefferson Hospital, at Jefferson avenue and Gamble street, where he has been ill for 11 weeks with a complication of tuberculosis and cirrhosis of the liver.

With Sheridan's death the court dockets will be cleared of cases against him for bribery in the Suburban and lighting deals and for perjury.

In 1898 Sheridan was Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates from the Fourth ward. William Vogel, Republican candidate was elected on the face of the returns, but the House combine needed Sheridan and declared Vogel's election invalid. He was ejected after a scene of violence and Sheridan was installed in his seat. The city auditor refused to allow his salary, and he never received compensation from the city treasury. This fact was offered as a defense when Sheridan was tried for bribery, but the court held that, as a de facto officer, he was responsible to the law for his acts.

Sheridan's advent into the House of Delegates clinched the triumph of the combine, into which, by reason of his affiliations with many of its members, he naturally dropped.

At the celebrated Julius Lehmann "birthday party" Sheridan, it is charged, drew $2500 of the $47,500 bribery fund for the passage of the lighting bill through the House of Delegates.

Sheridan was caught in the web of testimony woven by Circuit Attorney Folk in connection with the lighting bill, the return and confession of J. K. Murrell. He became one of the five fugitive members of the House of Delegates combine. Four weeks he was at large and although he was in the city most of the time and was known to most of the policemen, he was not caught until Oct. 4, 1902, although a reward of $200 was offered for his arrest.

On that day at 11:30 o'clock in the morning Policeman Coulter saw and recognized Sheridan at Delmar and Euclid avenue and arrested him. Sheridan said he was not a fugitive and had been in hospital too ill to give himself up and was on his way to the Four Courts to surrender.

Sheridan was locked up in the holdover and later released on bond.

When his case came up in the Circuit court he was convicted and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary. The case was appealed. Since then trial on other bribery charges has been postponed several times on account of illness. Two weeks ago trial was set for Nov. 10.

When Sheridan's term of office as a delegate expired he sought a re-nomination, but was defeated by Thomas E. ("Snake") Kinney.

Since he got out of active politics as a member of the House of Delegates he has been salesman for a local brewery, and the demands made upon his physical system by this occupation are said to be responsible for his death.

Sheridan was 42 years old, and leaves a father, Andrew Sheridan, who has been for 30 years in the employ of the fire department; a mother, two sisters and a brother, who were at his bedside at the last.

Physically, when he was in his prime, Sheridan was a large, heavy-set man with a smooth, round, boyish face, which was familiar to thousands of St. Louisans who did not know him personally.

DEAD BABY LEFT IN CEMETERY

Corpse Found in Basket Beside an Unmarked Grave.

An autopsy will be held today to determine the cause of death of a month-old girl, whose body was found in a basket on an unmarked grave in St. Peter and Paul's Cemetery, 624 Gravois avenue, by the action, George Poeschke. The child evidently had been dead only a few hours when the body was found Tuesday night. It was sent to the morgue. There were no evidences of violence.

The police theory is that the unmarked grave is that of a relative of the child, and that the latter's parents, too poor to give it the burial desired, left the body on the grave in the hope that it would be given proper interment.

Missing Since Monday.

Police are searching for Fred Walls, 30 years old, who disappeared from his home 1225 Washington avenue, Monday. He is thought to have considerable money with him. He went away with three strange men and nothing since has been heard of him. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall, about 145 pounds. He has light brown hair, is smooth shaven. He wore a black soft hat.

HE HAS MEMORY FOR FACTS

Assistant Chief of Detectives Recalled Former Visitor, but Needed a Little Prompting.

Assistant Chief of Detectives John Keely, sometimes known in crook circles as the "Little Eye," has a reputation second to none among detectives for memory of faces. Keely can tell a crook the minute he sees one, that is if the crook's picture has ever been in the rogues' gallery.

One day last week a man entered Keely's office.

"You remember me, don't you?" asked the visitor, extending his hand.

"Oh, yes; what can I do for you?" replied Keely.

"You know I was in here about two years ago and you told me to come back."

"Yes, yes, I remember; what about it?" Keely was beginning to think that his reputation was at stake.

"Well, are you ready for me now?" asked the visitor, eyeing Keely rather strangely.

"Let me see, your case was about—"

Keely stopped there, evidently expecting his visitor to help him out.

"I'm afraid you don't remember me."

"Oh, I remember you all right, but I just can't think what your case is about. I told you to return, didn't I?"

"Yes, don't you remember, I had a light soft hat on the last time I was here."

Keely was stumped.

"Yes, yes, yes; I remember now; you're the man with the light hat on."

"Yes, that's me; Hawkins is my name. I'm from Galveston, Tex.; James Hawkins of Galveston, Tex."

"I know your name. I remember you well, Mr. Hawkins, you had a light hat on the last time I saw you. I told you to come back."

"Are you ready for me now?"

"Let's see, you reported a robbery, didn't you? And I told you to come back so that if we caught the thieves you could identify them and—"

"No, you're wrong, chief. I spoke to you about a job."

"I know it was a job. It was a safe-blowing job or a burglary or something like that, wasn't it?" Keely was beginning to perspire.

"Why, no, it was a job on the detective force. I asked you to put me on and you told me to come back."

"Oh, yes, I remember the light hat now. Come back again."

What is "passed up" in tailoring, must come down in the shape of tailoring flaws.

When a coat "breaks" in front after but slight wear, you may be sure that it wasn't properly reinforced with the proper kind of hair-cloth—the only hair-cloth that we will allow to go into our tailoring is what is known to the trade as "75-strand-per-inch" hair-cloth. Usually only $75.00 per suit tailors use it.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF PRICES IN THE MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORK

STOCKS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE PRICES

Elimination of the War Scare as a Market Factor Causes a Further Recovery and the Close Is Active and Strong at a Higher Level.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The subsidence of the war scare, created by unnecessary rumors circulated yesterday, was responsible for an active and strong opening on Wall street this morning. The initial prices were sharply higher, and Amalgamated Copper was the bright particular feature, gaining over a point on an opening transfer of 13.09.

The exchange at London is open for business again today and the improved sentiment at that point was reflected in our market before the opening in a sharply higher range of values.

The advance of $2 per ton in the price of merchant pipe and short bars is taken as a preliminary step to an advance in the prices of wire products. It is also expected that the price of steel billets will shortly be raised to $21. This will be done if the price of steel rails is maintained at $23. The demands on the equipment companies are still of an excellent volume. Many orders for cars and supplies are being received. The export of nearly four hundred locomotives during the month of October is a striking illustration of the increasing industry in this class of products.

No change is apparent in the strike situation over night, and if anything the situation has been exaggerated by the announcement of the closing of the plants of the International Paper Co. at Berlin, N. J., and the throwing out of employment of the 60 men at this point.

The Chicago Burlington & Quincy has also placed heavy orders with the Carnegie Steel Co. for large amounts of rails and bridge metal for the construction of this kind are daily appearing in the market.

Traffic reports of the leading railroads are still of an optimistic nature and the improvement in this line of products is being manifested in the movement of freight is daily increasing. The New York Central reports the car movement of the company for October as unusually heavy and the Pennsylvania also reports an excellent car movement. In the Eastern section where the improvement of freight is still of a very healthy volume, the movement of freight is still of a very healthy volume.

The banks in their operations with the treasury still continue to lose moderate and this in connection with the engagements of gold for export has a hardening effect on the market. The indications point directly to a return to the normal level of the bank statement of Saturday, under the exportation of gold reached an abnormally high figure, the tendency of the bank statement for some time to be to a moderate level.

The announcement of the engagement of $2,000,000 in gold for export to Cuba in connection with the recent authorized sale of $2,000,000 and talk of further exports to Peru had no effect on the market. The weight of the feature on the market for the time being was pretty well discounted.

Just before the close it was rumored that the Motion Trust Co. had paid for the control of the Metropolitan Securities and it was also stated that some favorable arrangement had been made for the sale of the holdings of the majority stockholders. This news, accompanied by a further rise in Copper, led to a further recovery and the close was active and strong and in the general list sharply higher.

Opening prices and changes were as follows: Amalgamated Copper, 13.09; Advance, 13.09; Baltimore & Ohio, 13.09; Erie, 13.09; Reading, 13.09; St. Paul, 13.09; Southern Railway, 13.09; Union Pacific, 13.09; United States Steel, 13.09.

Today's Quotations.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Price of stocks today rebounded with the passing of fears of a renewal of the Anglo-Russian crisis and the international stocks were prominent in the recovery with the exception of a sprinkling of Pacific and granary stocks which were slightly lower. Amalgamated Copper was the feature on the sale of 10-00 shares at 77 and 78, compared with 71 1/2 last night. There were heavy dealings in Union Pacific at an advance of 1/2. Westinghouse Electric, North American, St. Paul & Northern Pacific, and Chicago Great Western moved a point.

Selling orders predominated after the opening and the market was generally steady. Amalgamated Copper received a bid to sell 100 shares at 77 1/2. St. Paul preferred was bid up to 78 1/2. Amalgamated Copper recovered 1/2 point, Sugar and Amalgamated Copper recovered 1/2 point, and the market rallied. Rock Island preferred, advanced 1/2 to 1 1/4 in Canadian Pacific. Rock Island preferred fell back 1/2 point. Colorado Southern, General Electric and in Pacific National and Dietrichs Securities. Erie was bought on a large scale and the market rallied. SCALE GRANTED BY 18 MINES

Hoisting Engineers' Union Announces Accession to Its Requests by St. Clair Owners.

According to an official statement issued Wednesday by the Hoisting Engineers' union, members of which went on strike Tuesday because of a reduction of their wages proposed by the Coal Operators' Association of Illinois, the owners of 18 of the 82 coal mines in St. Clair County have signed the scale demanded by the engineers.

The mines named in the announcement are: Sunlight, Lebanon, Royal, Johnson, Little Oak, Walnut Hill, Enterprise, Dutch Hollow, Hope, Hill, Higley, Hartman, Hottel, Joseph Taylor, Pittsburg, Massouath and Superior.

TO REDUCE NUMBER OF POLES

Plans Made for Stringing All Wires on One Line of Poles.

Representatives of local telephone and other electric companies, using poles and wires, will confer shortly with Supervisors of the city of St. Louis to devise means for the transfer of all wires to one set of poles.

The Board of Public Improvements, at its meeting Tuesday, decided to remove surplus poles and wires and instructed representatives of the electric companies to prepare for the change.

The action was taken on the opinion that all of the companies could string their wires on one set of poles, instead of dispersing them on poles and wires in each block. The plan was the continued absence of the poles and wires from the city streets.

DONOVAN COMMISSION CO. ON THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 2.—Considering the latest war between England and Russia was wiped off the map before there was a chance to pull a trigger, the international stocks were prominent today. The news from the fields is growing bad on condition and prospects of the wheat crop. It needs rain for the plant and the fly. The Russian fly has been held up in the west field of the big producing states and has attacked the plant for the mature the clouds will be fatal. Reports go to show a pretty bad state of affairs throughout the country and a heavy relief now will see a crop year will lose 1000 war—was that

EXCELLENT DEMAND FOR RAILWAY 4'S

Inquiry for These Bonds Leads to an Advance of Nearly a Point.

CREDIT INDEMNITY DROPS

Sale of Fifty Shares Causes a Loss of Ten Points on This Stock

The sharp investment demand for United Railway was the leading feature of an otherwise uninteresting session in the local stock exchange today, and on sales amounting to $35,000 the price of this issue was lifted almost a point. These bonds have been in active demand in the eastern market for some days past at a slightly higher level than that prevailing locally, and the price was given a reason for the inquiry manifested at the session today. The stocks of the Traction Company were not in active demand, with the exception of a 10-share lot of United Railway preferred at a decline of 1/2.

The trading in the bank and trust issues was of small volume and at was yesterday. The tendency of prices was reactionary. Mechanics National Bank on the sale of several small lots at $281 recorded a loss of 3/4 per share, while Commonwealth Trust was slightly higher at $292.50. American Credit Indemnity was 1/2 point lower and on the transfer of a fifty-share block at $185, dropped 10 points. In the miscellaneous list the demand was retarded. Simmons Hardware was 1/2 point advanced to $121 in the bidding without bringing out any offering at $122. The balance of the list was steady.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH RECORD OF PRICES IN THE MARKET AND FINANCIAL WORK

STOCKS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE PRICES

Elimination of the War Scare as a Market Factor Causes a Further Recovery and the Close Is Active and Strong at a Higher Level.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The subsidence of the war scare, created by unnecessary rumors circulated yesterday, was responsible for an active and strong opening on Wall street this morning. The initial prices were sharply higher, and Amalgamated Copper was the bright particular feature, gaining over a point on an opening transfer of 13.09.

The exchange at London is open for business again today and the improved sentiment at that point was reflected in our market before the opening in a sharply higher range of values.

The advance of $2 per ton in the price of merchant pipe and short bars is taken as a preliminary step to an advance in the prices of wire products. It is also expected that the price of steel billets will shortly be raised to $21. This will be done if the price of steel rails is maintained at $23. The demands on the equipment companies are still of an excellent volume. Many orders for cars and supplies are being received. The export of nearly four hundred locomotives during the month of October is a striking illustration of the increasing industry in this class of products.

No change is apparent in the strike situation over night, and if anything the situation has been exaggerated by the announcement of the closing of the plants of the International Paper Co. at Berlin, N. J., and the throwing out of employment of the 60 men at this point.

The Chicago Burlington & Quincy has also placed heavy orders with the Carnegie Steel Co. for large amounts of rails and bridge metal for the construction of this kind are daily appearing in the market.

this pest in the fields of wheat. Probably they did not have a bet down on the fly. Northwestern country elevator stocks show an increase during October of 202,000 bu and are now 5,678,000 bu, compared with 5,476,000 bu a year ago and 5,238,000 bu two years ago. Increases during October of these years were respectively 1,338,000 and 27,000 bu.

A message from Clarksville, Mo., says wheat is dying as a result of dry weather and there is a lot of reseeding going on. A point on the Missouri Pacific Railway in southwestern Missouri writes that wheat in absolutely dead and disappearing. A Chicago firm received letters from six Kansas millers which say wheat cleaned up throughout the state and that damage by drought and fly.

A Wright City (Mo.) miller writes that 75 per cent of the wheat crop in his section has been marketed and by Jan. 1 little wheat will be left in the country. He also notes the presence of Hessian fly in the wheat.

Shenandoah notes the following: "That he has fly damage reports from southern Ohio, Indiana, southern Illinois, parts of Missouri and parts of Kansas."

Faribault's statement of world's stock of hard makes total 184,000,000 bushels, against 184,000,000 bushels a year ago. Stock in hand and on order for Europe, 147,000,000 bushels, against 147,000,000 bushels a year ago.
